Many memories had there are plenty more to come. Built to last! Douglas Fir is ideal for log cabin home construction because of the size, length and the consistence of the tree. They have much less taper than allot of other log species. Because the grain and texture is very appealing, it is also commonly used for doors, trims, flooring and siding. Marvin double-pain windows throughout and offer stunning views. Roof replaced in 2021 and new septic installed in 2020.
